Title: The time of Dragons

Author: Unknown

Many years ago, for no apparent reason, the Dragons and Drakes started organizing themselves into attack groups and raiding lands in force. After a time, it was discovered that a man named Dragar was organizing the dragons. His strange in㆟uence over the dragons soon earned him the title : Lord of Dragons. His attacks were always so swift, well organized, and overwhelming that there was no chance to rally defenses against him.

Who was this man? Where was he from? Why did the Dragons follow him? Many sages attempted to learn the answers to these questions. Foremost among these was a sage named Arandal. He learned that Dragar sought to obtain the pieces of a set of magic armor that would make the wearer invincible according to legend.

Arandal also discovered that one of the pieces of this armour was contained in the secret vault of a long dead sorcerer named Rothar. An ambush was planned for Dragar at the vault. Dragar recovered three magic seals and used them to open a gate into the vault. When he stepped through the gate, the trap was sprung. Many warriors engaged his dragon guardians on top of the temple, while the most powerful warriors and mages of the land followed Dragar through the gate into the vault. None who ebtered the vaule escaped to tell what transpired within, but somehow the gate was closed and Dragar was sealed inside the vault.

Outside the vault, the battle with the dragons raged on fiercely. When the gate closed the warriors tried to collect the three seals in hopes they could destroy them and ensure that the gateway could never be re-opened. They managed to obtain two of the seals, but one of the seals was taken by the dragons.
